ISTQB® and TMMi® are forming an Alliance

The International Software Testing Qualifications Board (ISTQB®) and TMMi Foundation (TMMi®) have agreed to enter into an alliance to further promote the Software Testing profession together.

Establishing alliance with TMMi® is the one of the ongoing efforts ISTQB® took in order to constantly develop and improve the offer and better serve our customers.

ISTQB® is already working with TMMi® on Member Boards level – 15 Member Boards act as TMMi® Local Chapters, and 8 are in the process of becoming a Local Chapter. The next step is establishing possible options and scope of cooperation at organizational level.

"ISTQB® and TMMi® are two organizations acting in the area of software quality and testing. ISTQB® provides a body of knowledge for software testing processes, methods and techniques, we define the core framework for testing profession, while TMMi® is focused on test improvement efforts and provides a standard test maturity model framework (the TMMi model), and a standard framework for corresponding assessment. They perfectly complement each other therefore we see the alliance between the both organizations as a natural step in further standardization of software quality and testing" - said Karolina Zmitrowicz, ISTQB® President.

"The alliance with ISTQB® will bring together the people aspect and process aspect of a test improvement program. TMMi based test process improvement needs to be balanced with building a highly qualified set of testers. Using the two most important test certification schemes in conjunction will bring benefits to organizations, ultimately delivering higher levels of software quality. I believe this alliance to be an important step for the test profession leading the way towards the future." - said Erik van Veenendaal, CEO of TMMi®.
